

Dear Lincoln-Way-

As we complete our first week of school closure and e-Learning, I want to express how proud I am of our learning community: teachers, students, and parents.

Our teachers have created lessons that are thoughtful, meaningful, and appropriate. Lesson creativity and ingenuity extends across all curricular areas. Thank you teachers, for keeping the continuity of learning at a level that meets the expectations of our community while connecting with students on a social-emotional level as well.

Our students are engaged, connected, and putting forth effort during this historic time. Thank you, students, for demonstrating resiliency, flexibility, and engaging in technology skills that will certainly transfer to college, careers, and beyond. We know that this is a stressful time so please remember to take care of yourself and find healthy ways to relax and de-stress each day.

Parents, thank you for encouraging and monitoring the home e-Learning experience for our students. We appreciate your patience as we work through this new frontier together.

A few updates regarding Advanced Placement (AP) Testing:

TEST DATES: AP testing will not occur during the originally scheduled dates in May. Instead, students will be given two dates on which to take their AP exams at home. These two dates will be announced on April 3 by College Board. For more information regarding AP testing, click HERE.

AP PREP: In addition to the excellent preparation that our AP teachers are providing, College Board has released additional resources to support our teachers in preparing our AP students for the upcoming AP exams. For more information regarding these additional resources, click AP Review Courses.

Lincoln-Way 210 will continue e-Learning until Friday, March 27. Spring Break will occur March 30 through April 3. Additional information will be provided as this situation continues to evolve.

Thank you again to our students, families, teachers, and community as we continue to navigate through this uncharted time.

Sincerely,

R. Scott Tingley
